ROOSEVELT SEES BETTER DAYS

"Our Town" by J. B. WHITE

All men are liars. Not conscious, malicious liars, but unconscious liars, in the sense that their talk and their treatment of issues daily falls short of the exalted ideal of truthfulness that does not admit partial, distorted or exaggerated reports.

The most difficult thing in the world is to recognize a fact when it is a fact and to state a fact truthfully. It is not an easy thing to see a fact clearly. To state it clearly is even harder.

The unconscious liar has inaccurate powers of comprehension or inadequate powers of expression, or both. His morals are not at fault. His mind is very much like a window which distorts the landscape.

Everybody is acquainted with one or more of his kind. Political campaigns turn the spotlight upon them. The unconscious liar talking politics will condemn the enemy for being careless with the truth and in the next breath will misquote, misinterpret and misunderstand every utterance and policy of the other camp.

Professional lobbyists are often unconscious liars if not conscious liars. It is a habit they form in their zeal for making out a good case for their cause. Truth is of interest to them only when it serves their uses. Half truths and untruths they will cite as truths when it serves their purpose. And impressionable legislators accept it all as gospel truth.

In an address on the making of newspapers, Frank R. Kent, veteran political writer of the Baltimore Sun, made this statement: "In no other business and in no other profession, save that of the pure scientist, is the premium on accuracy so high, the penalty of inaccuracy so prompt, and the proportion of accuracy so great."

The truth of this statement is familiar to all who are engaged in the production of a newspaper and to a great proportion of the reading public who, while uninformed concerning the mechanical processes through which the news of the day is transmitted to the reading public, nevertheless recognize the reliability of by far the greater number of newspapers.

Where errors do occur, newspapers welcome the interest of readers in calling them to their attention. It is through the friendly co-operation of the reading public that newspapers are aided largely in their enternal endeavor to guard against inaccuracies.

It is interesting to recall in this connection the remark once made by so keen a critic as Woodrow Wilson, to the effect that, considering the complicated nature of the process of gathering and printing news and the speed with which it is done, it is remarkable that newspapers make so few errors of any kind.

Most people today are interested only in making both ends meet, but even in these times there are persons spending money in goodly sums on one end—their family beginnings.

Curiosity, social climbing and vanity have made the building family trees a large and prosperous industry even now. The high price on the heads of ancestors is freely paid.

1937 FARM PROGRAM IS APPROVED

Allred Takes Oath As Texas Lauds

The Governor

JAMES V. ALLRED

Austin, Jan. 19.—As Governor James V. Allred took oath of office Tuesday January 19th, for the second time to which he was overwhelmingly reeleced, legislative halls still echoed praise of the clear-cut and constructive message delivered by the Governor a week before.

Veteran newspapermen and political observers labeled the Governor's message as "candid, courageous and explicit" in its analysis of the state's financial situation and praised the program submitted by the Governor.

While legislative wheels gathered momentum in the session's second week, its crew of 150 representatives and 31 senators studied intently the stern economic course recommended by the Governor. A spirit of optimism reflected from the Governor's message prevailed in marked contrast to recent sessions where discord jarred any possible harmony.

Highspots of the Governor's message were:

Social Security Program

Old age assistance—The Governor pointed out that the Constitutional amendment adopted by the people provided for "assistance," not "pensions" and that the Federal law authorized "assistance' to the aged

MRS. MARY RICHARDS IS BURIED FRIDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Richards, 90, were held in the North Elm Baptist church on Friday, Jan. 8, 1937, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Richards, died in the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. W. Price in Cameron. She had been in feeble health for months and had been in bed. She was found dead in bed by Mrs. Price who took her breakfast to the room about 9 a. m.

When news came of the death of Grandma Richards there gripped the hearts of many a breavement born of genuine sorrow.

Native of Georgia

Mrs. Richards was a native of Georgia, the daughter of southern pioneers. She came to Texas with her faimly of 13 children following the death of her husband, the late Robert Richards, also a pioneer southern man. They were married in Bartow County, Georgia, in 1868 two years after the close of the civil war.

She sprang from a family of American pioneers who made history. Her life spanned almost a hundred years of the most stirring times in the history of the United States.

Mother of 13

Left with 13 children, two of whom had married, she came to Texas, and had lived to rear them to mature years, seeing them all married and es-

NATIONAL FARM LOAN ASSOCIATION ELECTS

The annual meeting of the Cameron National Farm Loan Assiciation, which was held at Cameron, Tuesday, January 12, was one of the best meetings in the history of the association, according to P. S. Graves, who was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer of the association for 1937.

T. S. Henderson, J. D. Baskin, Roy Baskin, of Cameron; J. C. Freeman of Maysfield, and Bartle Crenan of Burlington were elected directors of the association for the ensuing year.

A feature of the meeting was a

Texas Writer Visits Sister In Cameron

Mrs. Hulen P. Carroll of San Antonio, writer, is in Cameron visiting her sister, Mrs. H. M. Hefley.

Mrs. Carroll in recent months has been engaged in an extensive publicity campaign for the Texas Centennial. This place with the organization took her to all parts of Texas. Newspapers and magazines have published her writings. Of interest to Texas readers at this time is the announced plan of Mrs. Carroll to write a series of articles based upon the Centennial celebrations.

The work is to be in the main a back stage glance at the tremendous spectacle of Texas clamoring to parade its history before the world. Little known incidents, struggles and colorful happenings, the heart throbs and human interest back of it all, will be brought to the front, along with an educational trend to the story.

Mrs. Carroll is one of the best modern day writers in the south.

PLAN REVEALS CO-OPERATION

General plans for the 1937 Agricultural Conservation program have been approved by the ecretary of Agriculture after conferences of representative farmers and Extension staff members had gone over the 1936 work and suggested needed changes.

Cotton and wheat, peanuts and rice, the crops listed as soil-depleting in which Texas is most interested, have been subject to very few changes in the revision.

Cotton is again rated at five cents a pound and the base will be determined in about the same manner as in 1936 but with provision for adjustments such as those indicated by measurements made in 1936. The maximum cotton acreage upon which payments will be made for soil- conserving crops is 35 per cent of the base.

Peanuts have a 15 per cent limit and a 1.25 cents per pound payment.

Reduction from general soil-depleting base will be approximately the same; with the 15 per cent limit still applying.

No farm will be eligible to earn a payment for diversion from the general soil-depleting base except upon approval of the County Conservation Committee. This approval must include the fact that home consumption needs of the farm are taken care of before any diversion of acreage is made.

Each state will have a handbook giving details of the program as they apply to that state with no reference to exceptions applicable to other

CHEEVES BROS. OPEN ANNUAL CLEARANCE

Something big is taking place in Cameron this week in the field of merchandising.

It is the annual clearance sale of Cheeves Bros., dry goods store. Twice a year, in January and July the big store cleans house of all goods left from the season and makes history in value giving.

The sale this January is one of the notable events in the history of the store. There has been few times in recent years when so great a quantity of seasonable goods have been thrown into the votex of the price-reduction. The sale this year is tremendous in that it is store wide and in the middle of the winter season with many weeks of cold weather ahead.

A good investment is in this merchandise, say the store owners. The position of leadership of this store was never more a challenge to better merchandising than in this sale.

The sale will continue indefinitely, at least through the remaining days of the month and into February. This issue of The Herald carries a message to buyers. Thousands will read this sparkling double page spread.

City Marshal Smith Gets Slot Machines In Cameron Tuesday

Two slot machines were confiscated by City Marshal Gene Smith here Wednesday, he announced. The seizure came close on the heels of charges filed against a Calvert man who was arrested for operating marble machines and a slot machine at Branchville.

A recent decision of a Waco court drove the marble machines out. Slot machines have been under ban of the law for years, but it is known they have been secretely operated in Cameron.

"I do not think a ban should be placed on marble and slot machines in another part of the county and not be enforced in Cameron," said the City Marshal.

Sheriff Kennedy has filed charges against a man arrested at Branchville. Deputy Sheriff Clarence Mc Call made the arrest.

Since the marble machines were outlawed and banned in the county, prosecutions are looked for if owners attempt to operate them.

Miss Strange Fails To Reach Hawaiian Home; Ship Strike

Miss Bertha Fae Strange, home demonstration agent for Milam county, is at her home in Bangs, Texas. She has been unable to sail for her new home in the Hawaiian Islands because of the seaman strike on the west coast.

Friends here this week were surprised to know that she had been unable to reach her destination. When it became evident that she could not sail at once she returned to her home and is awaiting developments. She expects to be able to resume her journey shortly.

She goes to Hawaii to work with the Extension service of the Department of Agriculture as demonstration agent in the Japanese colony on the islands.

Chas. F. Green Is Offering New Deal In Grocery Sales

Chas. F. Green's new cash grocery was given a new deal in sales this week. With every circular brought to his store you can get five per cent off on your purchase.

The new grocery is quoting a wide range of prices on foods and the big display in this issue of The Herald will be of interest to buyers over the territory.

AID FOR THE DOWN TROD

Washington, Jan. 20.—President Roosevelt's inaugural indicated today that there will be plenty of governmental action in the next four years.

Those who hoped, or feared, that the president had reached a resting place, that his second administration would be devoted chiefly to consolidating the status quo, found litle in the speech to support such a thesis.

Though he gave no specific details, Mr. Roosevelt made plain that he would seek to "carry on" toward his first term's objectives—to continue the march which aroused so much passionate argumentation.

Problems Different

To be sure, he pictured today's problems as somewhat different from those of 1933. Then the task, as he put it, was to "end stagnation and despair."

Now, he said, the nation must strive to prevent certain "symptoms of prosperity" from becoming "portents of diaster." He named the symptoms—"dulled conscience, irresponsibility and ruthless self-interest." What specific reform measures may be taken to remove them is a question that will be answered when

NO PRIMARY TO BE HELD IN CAMERON

No City Primary will be held in February unless demand is made for one, is the opinion of Roy Baskin, chairman, who says it has not been the practice to hold primary elections in off political years.

Candidates for Aldermen may file with the city secretary for the general election in April. For years, Mr. Baskin says, there have been no candidates of the Democratic party for Aldermen in off years.

In all years preceding general primary campaigns a primary is held. So far only one candidate has announced for alderman but is making no demand for a primary.

The chief reason for avoiding a primary is the cost. The election in April is paid for by the city and is therefore defrayed by taxes.

Old Cedar from W. C. Wiese Home At String Prairie, Freighted to Pt. Sullivan In 1868, Sent to Herald By B. F. Wiese

A slab of red cedar native Texas wood, measuring three feet in length and 8 inches in width, found its way to The Herald office this week.

It was sent in by B. F. Wiese of String Prairie and has an interesting history.

This lumber was freighted from Houston to Port Sullivan in 1868. It was the first lumber hauled to the Port and was used in constructing a home for a pioneer. The lumber has been in possession of the family since 1868. It was moved from Port Sullivan to the site of the present Wiese home at String Prairie in 1868.

Back of these cargoes to inland points lies a romantic and colorful story of Texas pioneer days. Long before railroads met the sea frieghters made trails across the prairies to Houston and Galveston. At Milikan near Bryan was a pioneer trading post at the foot of the rails extending east. Wagon trains once made this place their terminal in the rugged business of hauling supplies to homes and cabins in the interior of Texas.

Mr. Wiese has another interesting memento of other days. He picked up an American ten cent piece at the base of a cedar tree on the battlefield of San Jacinto. Date of the piece indicates it may have been money carried by one of the revolutionary army of Gen. Sam Houston.

Truck Law Ban Repeal is Sought

From the standpoint of fireworks, old time observers of the Legislature are expecting a brilliant display of pinwheels, sky rockets, and bombs as well as the usual fire crackers, when the Legislature really gets down to work.

Within the past few weeks, it has become more and more apparent to capitol city observers that the fight over the proposed amendment to the present Texas Motor Carrier Act is going to be a hot and lively one.

The present law accepts the judicial definition of a common carrier and then classifies all others who haul for "compensation or hire" as contract carriers. These are required to obtain a permit from the Railroad Commission, meet certain loading and packing regulations, and charge for such transportation as much or more, than the "less than carload lot" railway freight rate for shipment of the same weight and classification.

A further section of the law prohibits the Railroad Commission from issuing such a permit if to do so "impairs" the operation of any public carrier.

Two recent court decisions, the New

RESETTLEMENT FARMS DOT MILAM COUNTY

Milam County farmers aided by the Resettlement Administration are making notable progress in their "live-at-home" program, it was stated here today by D. P. Trant, regional director of the Resettlement Administration, after examining the annual report for this county made by Glenn Mitchell, rural supervisor.

Out of the 133 families receiving loans in Milam County, all were reported as having grown sufficient vegetables for their use the past year in spite of the record-breaking drought. Seventy-five were reported as having sufficient poultry, 75 as having sufficient milk and butter from their own cows, and 10 as making cheese. More than 7,500 quarts of vegetables and fruit were put up by these families and 10,600 pounds of meat were stored.

Although practically all of these families were farm tenants, rather than owners, they improved their temporary homesteads by planting 25 trees, 50 shrubs, finished the walls in 33 houses and floors in 10. They made 25 mattresses and renovated 35 matresses, made 198 quilts and renovated 296.

Mr. Mitchell's report was made jointly with Nora F. Roach rural supervisior of home management plans for Milam County.

Loans totaling $36,031 were made by Resettlement Administration to 133 families in Milam County during 1936. Most of the amount loaned was expended for teams, tools and other so-called "recoverable" goods, the remainder being spent for consumable supplies such as food, clothing, medicine, feed, etc. Eighteen per cent of the amount loaned has already been repaid, although th loans were made to run from one to five years. Average repayments for the state were 26 per cent.

Nine Milam County borrowers have repaid their loans in full and only 21 made no repayment. The average borrower received a loan of $270.93 and has repaid $50.81.

Two loans were made to groups of farmers in Milam County in order to provide co-operative service in communities where there was a large number of borrowers. These loans were for one jack and one stallion, totaling $675.

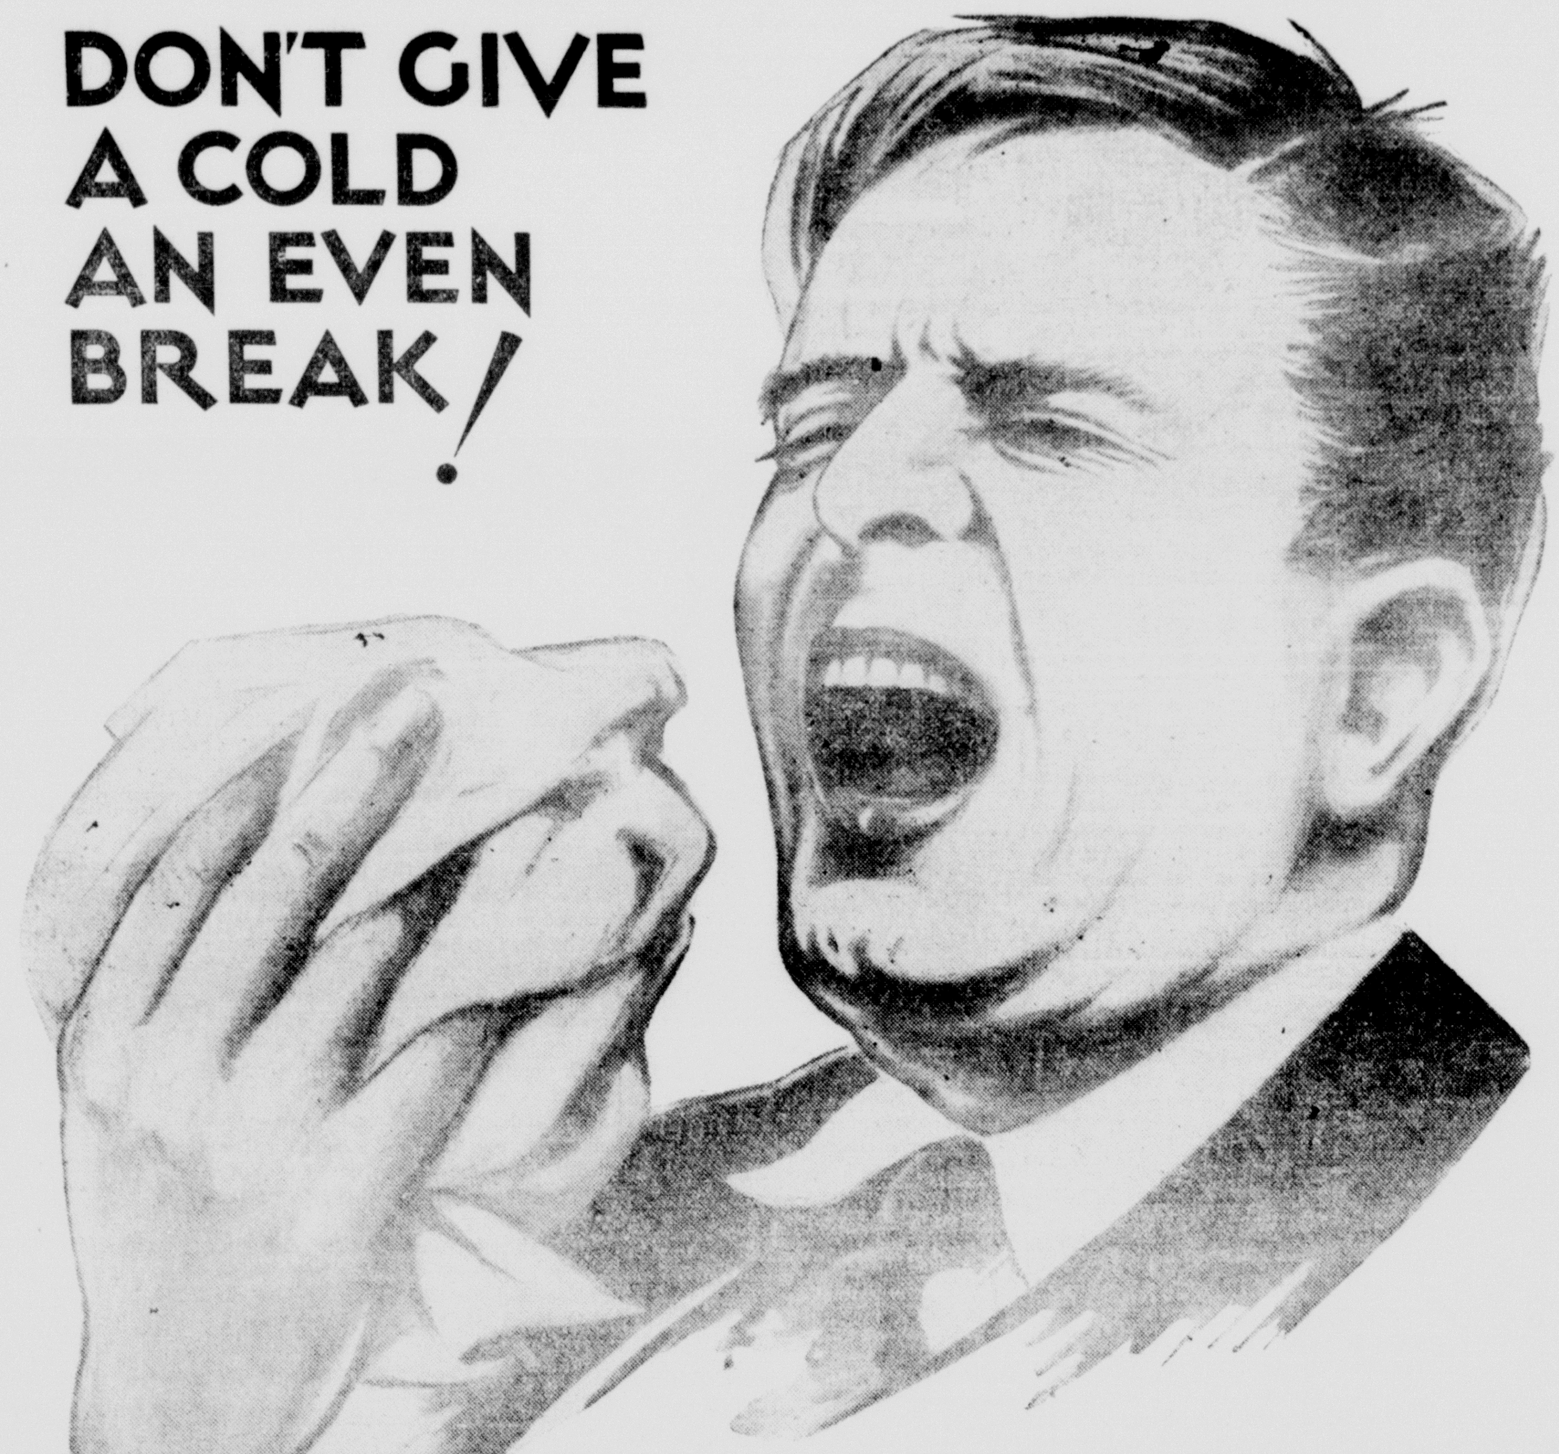
DON'T GIVE A COLD AN EVEN BREAK!



Reports from health authorities warn against the danger of the common cold. It is an illness that should be regarded with utmost seriousness. With the warning comes the startling information that fifty per cent of all disabling diseases start with a common cold. If you do catch cold consult your family doctor before it has an opportunity to undermine your health.

If your home is inadequately heated . . . if you "huddle" in one or two rooms . . . if some rooms are kept warm while others remain cold, your family cannot avoid sudden temperature changes as they go from room to room. Quick changes of temperature within the home make it easy for the cold germ to attack. Therefore, don't give a common cold an even break. Take the important precaution of providing adequate heat and proper ventilation of fresh air in every room of the home during the treacherous weeks ahead.

needy only. He stated that he would not approve any bill liberalizing or extending benefits to those not in need until the present law had a just and fair trial.

Other features—The Governor recommended the passage of legislation for the aid of the blind, the crippled, dependent children and others entitled to benefits under the national social security law; provided that the program would be financed by sufficient revenues.

Utility Regulation

"We must pass an effective regulatory utility law, one giving adequate power and means to a State Commission. If we can secure a reasonable reduction in rates by the passage of an adequate utility regulation law, it will possibly result in a greater saving to the people than could come from any other form of legislation.'

Saftey Program

"I recommend the passage of a rigid uniform drivers license law; and of measures making more effective regulation of trucks and buses whether common carrier or privately owned. The time has come when personal inconvenience must, to a considerable extent, give way to public welfare and safety."

The Governor recommended the doubling of the present highway patrol force, the cost to be paid out of the state highway fund.

Taxation Estimates of Money Needed

The Governor estimated more than $13,000,000 would be required to assure the ulitmate liquidation of the deficit, care for the new demands under the federal social security program, and put the finances of the state in order. $1,600,000 is needed this year for old age assistance and an additional $1,600,000 annually thereafter for that purpose.

Additional annual requirements: $2,500,000 to apply on and reduce the deficit; $1,375,000 for eleemosynary institutions; $2,500,000 to assure that income into general revenue fund will equal expenditures.

Governor Allred declared that the condition of the general fund was due, not to increased salaries in the executive and judicial departments, but to the three million dollars Centennial appropriation, increased appropriation for rural aid, payments on relief bonds, and remission of taxes to counties and homestead exemptions.

Revenue and Taxation

The Governor asserted he would approve no appropriations out of general revenue for any new purpose unless the Legislature provided matching revenue.

Tax legislation proposed by him included the passage of constitutional amendment to permit classification of property and the application of various taxation rates within classes, to collect delinquent taxes, prevent evasions, and in general bring about fairer rendition of property values.

The chief executive recommended substantial increases in the taxes on oil, gas and sulphur in line with the Democratic state platform advocating increased levies on natural resources. He further urged changes in the intangible assets tax laws and asserted that under the present law utilities, railroads and oil pipelines pay less than ordinary business corporation.

"Representatives of oil pipeline companies oppose an increase in the franchise tax," he said, "and say we ought to have general sales tax to make the average man tax-conscious and make him appreciate his government. I think they ought to show appreciation to the state which has contributed to their prosperity by agreeing to the levy of a fair franchise tax. Untaxed millions of pipeline company profits constitute the most unequal taxation that can be found. I earnestly urge this legislature to correct promptly these defects in our franchise tax laws and provide the state with needed revenue."

Constitutional Amendments Legislation

Legislation to carry out the amendment placing the unrestrained power of clemency in a non-political board of pardons and paroles in addition to the regulation of procedure before the board and the enactment of parole laws.

Probation amendment—To authorize courts of original jurisdiction to suspend imposition or execution of sentence, and to place a defendant on probation and to reimpose sentence.

Legislation for the enactment of the following constitutional amendments: legislative redistricting; salaries of certain constitutional officers, teachers retirement system, temporary confinement of mentally ill persons without jury trial, workmen's compensation insurance for state employees and child labor.

The Governor prefaced his recommendation on most of these amendments by urging that the legislature contain provisions for sufficient revenues.

"Jungle Jim" New Serial for Milam Theatre In City

There is a fascination about the jungle, its perils and its mysteries, which exerts an attraction as powerful as a magnate to the people of the temperate zone.

Stories and plays with a tropical background almost invariably are deeply interesting to them.

New proof of this will be found at the Milam Theatre here Friday and Saturday January 29 and 30 when a capacity audience turns out to see the first eqisode of "Jungle Jim," a new Universal adventure serial.

The picture deals with the African jungle exploits of the young explorer, Jungle Jim, whose name gives the screen play its title.

The Universal production, presented in 12 episodes, is based on Alex Raymond's popular newspaper syndicated feature strip.

Grant Withers plays the title role. Betty Jane Rhodes portrays the part of oan, the Lion Goddess, while featured roles are played by Raymond Hatton and Evelyn Brent.

Artfully directed by Ford Beebe and Cliff Smith to include action, adventure, and absorbing plot and an appealing romance, the picture provides screen entertainment for the entire family.

The strong supporting cast includes Frank Mayo, Charles Murphy, Claude King, Solmer Jackson, Paul Sutton, Henry Brandon, Al Bridge and Bryant Washburn.

Dr. W. R. Newton, Jr. Is Made County Health Officer

POAGE IS NAMED ON THREE COMMITTEES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—W. R. Poage, United States Congressman from the Waco District, has been appointed to serve on three congressional committees, the Committee of Immigration and Naturalization, the War Claims Committee and the Committee on Census.

The Committee on Immigration and Naturilization is always considered important. It is expected that during the present session of Congress an unusually large amount of legislation will come before it.

The Census Committee, ordinarily with little or no work except during the regular census years, is looking for greatly increased activity in view of the proposed unemployment census.

Recognition on two important committees for a new member is rather unusual and with the addition of a place on the War Claims Committee Poage has been singularly honored.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of trying to express our thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kind words and loving sympathy in our great sorrow by the loss of our dear mother and grandmother.

May God bless each and everyone who gave flowers. The floral offerings were so beautiful. It is impossible to see each one and thank them personally, but we think Cameron has the best people on earth to offer real assistance and sympathy when dark clouds like these hover near.

Again may the richest blessings rest upon each and everyone is our prayer.

Mrs. M. W. Price, Children and Grand Children.

Rainfall for January Near Three Inches

Rainfall for the month of January in the city neared the three inch level yesterday as reported by R. A. Tag. Wednesday also marked the fifteenth day since the people of this vicinity have seen the sun. This is perhaps the longest period of continuous rain and cloudy weather witnessed in this vicinity for a number of years.

Although industries in the city have been hard-pressed, cotton farmers over the county see prospects of a fine crop this fall and possibilities of producing the crop at a much smaller expense than last year.

36 Years Apart Boedeker Family Members Hold Reunion In Cameron on Christmas Day

An event of the holidays that made celebration history in Cameron has come to the attention of The Herald. It was the recent reunion of the Boedeker brothers and sisters.

They had not been together in 36 years and the occasion was a happy one, bringing back memories of old days when they were at home in this city.

The reunion was featured by a Christmas day dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Boedeker in Cameron.

The Boedeker family is one of the pioneer families of this part of Texas and many of its members are now engaged in business here and elsewhere.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. August Boedeker and daughter of Lott, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Boedeker family of Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boedeker and son of Stanford, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Boedeker of Houston Mr. and Mrs. John Jistel of Cameron, and Mrs. Hugo Boedeker's brothers and sister-in-laws, Mr. and Mrs. JoeHampel and daughter of Houston, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hampel and family of Rogers.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rinn of Stamford, Texas, were also among those present for the day.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

A GOOD LAXATIVE

Roosevelt

the adminstration program unfolds in detail.

For Motto: Carry On

In announcing that he would not be diverted from his objectives, the president said:

Many voices are heard as we face a great decision. Comfort says tarry a while." Opportunism says 'this is a good spot.' Timidity asks "how difficult is the road ahead?"

"If I know aught of the spirit and purpose of our nation, we will not listen to comfort, opportunism and timidity. We will carry one."

Flings Out Challenge

That is the commission the president had read for himself in the all-but-unparalleled popular and electoral majorities he received last November. That was the challenge he flung again and again today at councilors of delay, of an end of social and economic experimentation.

He dedicated his leadership anew to "progress" of which, he said, the test shall be "whether we provide enough for those who have too little," not "whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much."

Dismisses Past Achievements

Aside from that, the most striking aspect of the second Roosevelt inaugural was its dismissal of the record of four years of recovery in a single, one-sentence paragraph:

"Our progress out of the depression is obvious," the president said.

Yet against that terse summation, he drew a new, graphic picture of the nation as he sees it today, the reins of power again in his grip, his resolve taken:

Better Living Is Goal

"I see a great nation, upon a great continent, blessed with a great wealth of natural resources. I see a United States which can demonstrate that, under Democratic methods of government, national wealth can be translated into a spreading volume of human comforts hitherto unknown—and the lowest standard of living can be raised far above the level of mere subsistence."

LEGION EXPANDING ACTIVITIES HERE

Plans looking to the organization of Sons of Leglonaires are now under consideration by the local post, it was announced by E. W. Streetman, adjutant, Wednesday.

Further consideration of the plan will be made on February 2nd when the post meets again. Post officials ask that all members be present and bring their sons. The organization would follow a similar development as the DeMolay in Masonic circles.

Mr. Streetman said that the post would meet twice a month hereafter. On the first Tuesday night of the month business sessions will be held. On the third Tuesday night of the month, social meetings will be held.

The first social meeting of the New Year was held on Tuesday night of this week with about 50 members attending. Games of dominoes, bridge and 42 were played.

Mr. Streetman said that from time to time representatives of the state department would meet with the local post.

talk by T. S. Henderson, president of the Association, emphasizing the importance of meeting installments as they come due and the liability of each stockholder and a radio address by A. C. Williams, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, who spoke to the members of the 365 national farm loan associations in Texas who were attending similar meetings in cities and towns all over Texas at the same hour. This was made possible through the co-operation of the major radio broadcasting stations which make up the Texas Quality Network.

Mr. Williams discussed some of the factors that make up good and bad loans and urged that farmers take care of their property. He said that a well-kept farm whose soil is protected from erosion is seldom, if ever, foreclosed. He also commented upon the important part which the co-operative farmer-owned national farm loan association play in the successful operation of the Federal Farm Loan System, and emphasized the fact that the Farm Credit Administration units offered the many types of credit needed by agriculture.

"Farmers generally should familiarize themselves with the types of loans available through these institutions, with the view of developing co-operative credit centers where desering borrowers may secure both long and short term credit according to their needs'" said Mr. Williams.

The Cameron National Farm loan Association has helped more than 136 farmers and stockmen of Milam, Bell, Robertson, Harris, Travis, Brewster and Ward counties refinance their indebtedness on a sound basis. Since the creation of the Farm Credit association has made land bank and Commissioner loans in its territory amounting to $592,300.

MARBLE MACHINES ON BLACKLIST IN CITY

For the second time in three months marble machines have been removed from business places in Cameron.

The first time was Sept. 30, 1936, when District Attorney Emory B. Camp and Sheriff Max Kennedy called marble machine operators in conference and requested them to remove the machines. The machines were removed, but for only a few days. The machines were back in their places and were operating following an injunction against the sheriff and district attorney.

The injunction had been issued Oct. 3 by Judge J. H. Kirby of the 77th district court of Groesbeck and restrained the officers from molesting the marble machines in this county.

In a similar case at Houston, Judge Kirby issued an injunction. A hearing was held in the Houston case in the court of civil appeals at Waco Monday. The court ruled that Judge Kirby did not have the power or authority to enjoin officers in enforcing a criminal law, the constitutionality of this law not being in question. Therefore, the injunctions were dissolved against the officers. The ruling in the Houston case applied to the Milam county case.

J. C. Kilgore Hurt In Auto Wreck

News has been received here of injuries suffered in an automobile accident Friday by J. C. Kilgore of Waco. Mr. Kilgore is an oil operator and holder of a number of leases in Milam county, with his headquarters at a Cameron hotel.

"Snake" Thompson, a driller at one of Mr. Kilgore's wells, and who also lives in Waco, was reported injured.

The two men were carried to Waco. Mr. Kilgore was reported unconscious for several days.

dollar of Americans with more money than family knowledge. Few people bother about their family trees until they arrive financially, when many go into the matter somewhat deeply, particularly in a financial way.

A genealogist writing his memoirs cites only one instance of a customer being elated over the discovery of blacksheep in his family. He had his family tree—gibbeted highwayman, sheep-stealer and all—illuminated on vellum.

Family trees cost as much as the genealogist can inveigle from his client. In few of them is there as much comfort as in a cord of fireplace wood yet their cost runs up into the thousands of dollars.

Genealogy seems to be a futile science or industry, and yet such things keep mony in circulation and make for prosperity.

COWPEAS GREAT SOIL BUILDER SAYS BANZHAF

The time has come when we must look to building up our soil. Only a very few farms accumulate enough stable or cowlot manure to build up more than an acre or two, so we must do the building with soil improving crops.

Clovers are good soil builders but are rather particular about the soil upon which they grow. In fact most kinds of clover wants a soil for best results that doesn't need any building up.

Soybeans are also soil builders but are quite a bit particular about climatic conditions; so our best bet for a real soil builder is the cowpea. It has been grown for more than 100 years for that purpose and has never failed to deliver the goods.

As a soil builder I honestly believe that the cowpea has no equal, taking all soil and climatic conditions into consideration.

As a hay crop the cowpea has but few equals. It has been tested out with alfalfa and other leading hay crops and has proved a good brother.

As a grazing crop for horses, cattle and hogs the cowpea is mighty hard to beat.

Begin now to plan a good sized crop of cowpeas on that old worn-out or run-down land of yours, for this year.

The best varieties for soil improvement are the Whippoorwill, Chines Red, Brabham and Iron. The Brabham and Iron cowpea is very highly recommended for the black and mixed lands.

George Banzhaf,
County Agent.

Clean System Clear Skin

You must be free from constipation to have a good, clear complexion. If not eliminated, the wastes of digestion produce poisons and the skin must do more than its share in helping to get rid of them.

So for a clear, healthy skin, remember the importance of bowel regularity. At the first sign of constipation, take Black-Draught—the purely vegetable laxative. It brings such refreshing relief, and tends to leave the bowels acting regularly until some future disturbance interferes.

Chevrolet Workers Mass To Protest Against Enforced Idleness Caused By Strikers

More than 9,000 men, virtually the entire personnel of the Chevrolet Gear and Axle Division of General Motors Corporation, staged a demonstration last week against the strikes which have shut down General Motors plants and thrown out of work nearly 135,000 workers. The demonstration shown above occurred at the main plant of the Division's four units in Detroit. The employes assembled after this demonstration to receive their pay checks, their last pay until the resumption of operations. The employes' committee voted to publicize their opposition to the strike through personal telegrams to Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan and to President Roosevelt. The mass demonstration of protest was held under banners carrying these legends: "We don't want a strike," "We want our jobs back," "We object to minority rule," and "No labor dictators for us." In order to alleviate distress, the Corporation proposes to resume operations on a reduced basis in plants not shut down as a result of these strikes.

of the TEXAS POWER & LIGHT COMPANY

TEXAS POWER & LIGHT COMPANY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
DALLAS, TEXAS

January 15, 1937

JOHN W. CARPENTER
PRESIDENT

To My Fellow-Workers:

For your work and valor in restoring electric service to our customers under the most trying circumstances ever witnessed in Texas, I can not adequately express my appreciation.

Your deeds, though enacted in the line of duty, are signalized by the very importance of their purpose. The comfort, convenience, and the safety of the people . . our customers . . . were definitely at stake.

As the storm's fury began to manifest itself late Saturday, my heart went out to you and your families. I knew from my own personal experience as a lineman what you were up against; and, I knew what the lonely hours of anxious waiting and prayerful hoping for your safety meant to your families. While they knew that you were trained and skilled in safety practices in your work, and that you are equipped with every safety device known to our industry, at the same time they realized that the sleet and ice created hazards against which you were at the mercy of chance.

While other people, heeding the storm warnings, were "housing in" for comfort, safety and companionship, you went forth, unheralded, to battle the ice and sleet to maintain our service so that our customers might more fully enjoy "comfort, safety and companionship."

Nature contrived, through this storm, a terrible test for you. You met this test in a manner that makes my heart swell with pride in my association with you. No one knows better than I what that 96-hour stretch of toil and exposure meant to you . . numb with cold and exhaustion, your nerves worn to the quick . . you carried on without thought of self, without flinching or turning back.

Thus you have lived up to our slogan, "Service First." This slogan was adopted by our company when it was first organized twenty-five years ago. It has expressed our purpose through all these years. I know that it rang clear in your minds as you battled your way through all the hindrances Nature threw against you in this crisis . . to the single end of restoring and maintaining service to our customers just as quickly as possible.

I feel I can assure you that our customers join me in my pleasure at this privilege of thus publicly citing you for your deeds of valor and service. I extend to you my deepest appreciation.

Most sincerely yours,

John W. Carpenter

President and General Manager.

YOEMEN TO PLAY THORNDALE FRIDAY

The Cameron Yoemen basketball team will play Thorndale here tomorrow night in the high school gymnasium. The Thorndale team has made a good showing, having defeated Rockdale in early seoson.

The Yoemen squad have been undergoing stiff training in preparation for this game which is important in determining the county winner.

Last Friday the Yoemen swamped the Taylor Ducks 33 to 14. Gerick and Groppell were high score men with 10 and 9 points respectively. Garvin, playing his first game as a regular did a very neat job. The team work, free throw shooting, and defense was far superior to that of the Rosebud game. Baldwin, Griswold, Lunsford, Walzel and Kubecka played good offensive and defensive ball against the Ducks.

How to Figure Your Weekly Wage

Question 6—"My work is irregular or seasonal. Some weeks I work more hours, earn more pay, than in others. Previous articles have made it clear that to detrmine what benefits I can receive, I must know what my wage has been. Does the law say how the amount of my wages is to be determined?"

Answer—To determine your weekly wage, you must find out two things:

(1) Your Full-Time Weekly Hours To get this figure, add together all the hours you worked in all the weeks in the last 52 weeks in which you were employed 30 hours or more.

Example: In the last 52 weeks, you worked 25 hours a week for 5 weeks, 28 hours a week for 10 weeks, Legislative Hurdles.

In horse race paralance the 45th Legislature is off. In due and ancient form it duly convened on Tuesday and soon got down to business.

My Good friend Gregg Hill, one of the old timers of Austin, told me that he had attended the organizaiton of every legislature for the last 40 years. If all good citizens would take this much interest in legislative procedure probably we would not have so many fool laws in the books that ought never have been passed. But of greater importance, if all good citizens would attend the organization of the legislature for the next 40 years we could be relieved of a lot more bad laws which simlin headed legislators may again foist on the people.

The House elected Robert Calvert speaker of acclamation. Calvert is not a showy statesman, but he is fearless. He did not receive one clap of applause while he was making his speech of acceptance, yet he held his audience almost spell bound by his earnest expression. At 31 he is perhaps the youngest speaker in late years and his career is a fine example for the young men to study. Reared in an ophan's home he has by dint of continuous labor and study raised himself to a position of eminence and and distinction. It should be a source of swelling pride that we live in a country where such achievement is possible and permitted.

This legislature has no female members but it can boast of almost any kind of male you may call for. You will see them dressed in all kinds of clothes and styles and ranging from 22 to 70 years of age and from 108 to 258 pounds in weight. Maybe the size of their hats will increase after they have served in the legislature for a while. I asked one of the old time members if he did not think the many young men in the legislature was a promising looking crowd and he said: 'Hell yes they promised everything to get elected." Be that as it may, I am for these young men—they alone must save the country. We old roosters haven't got time to finish the job. If the government will just pay us our pension without so much red tape and objection, we can afford to step aside and mark the account squared.

While the legislature opened in harmony, there may be another story to tell right soon. One of my old friends asked me what is a deficit. I told him the best definition I could give was that it is a debt you can't pay now. If the legislature will just remember that the state is now 16 million dollars in debt and can't pay, maybe they will be impressed with the necessity of learning something about governmental economy as their first lesson in state-craft. If we don't go to saving, we will be like the old darky when asked, "What he would do if somebody gave him a million dollars." And he replied that he would pay it on his debts as "far" as it would go. Any state or nation that gets to where it can not pay its debts must fall. History records no exception to the rule.

Just a word personal. My column each week is already being published in 22 papers, and the number is growing every day. I am of course gratified because I always appreciate an opportunity to tell my friends that I still love them and want to let them know what I am doing. I will appreciate if my friends will subscribe to their home paper and ask them to print the "Listen Folks" column each week.

I am going to write next week about the inauguration of Governor Allred and what he says in his message to the legislature. I will also tell the people what new laws and bills are being offered in the legislature and what they mean to the people. This legislature, to say the least will be eventful, and I hope it will be helpful: Listen folks, let me tell you about it.

Grandma Richards

tablished in life. When she died there were 57 grand children and 67 great grand children and four great, great grand children to survive her.

The body of the pioneer mother lay in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Price all day Thursday. At 2 p. m. Friday the funeral procession left the home for the old community cemetery at North Elm. It was a cold day. Bleak winds blew out of the north and rain fell, mixed with sleet. The little white church she had attended for many years, sits on a sloping hill side. To the south across the road lies an old cemetery. In it are buried pioneers who settled the North Elm community many years ago.

Many Pay Tribute

The church was packed to capacity as Rev. O. C. Acrey, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, opened the service with Bible reading and prayer. The rich gray casket banked with flowers was in full view of the old neighbors and friends who braved the cold to look upon the face of Grandma Richards for the last time before she was put away in the ground south of that road across which many bodies have been borne by neighbors. Every eye was moist. Strong men fought back tears as they heard her life praised by her pastor, Rev. Vernon G. Miles of the First Baptist church in Cameron. Grandma moved her membership here many years ago.

Touching Tribute

It was a touching tribute the pastor paid her. She had been a Christian believer for more than three quarter of a century. She had reared 13 children. Here was a real pioneer woman with snow white hair, dead after 90 years and her influence so strong in the lives of her neighbors that the eloquence of the pulpit seemed lost in the breathless presence of one who had lived and wrought so well. Rev. Miles' words found instant echo in the hearts of all. The choir sang another song and the procession to the cemetery began after neighbors had filed by the casket to say farewell to Grandma, whom the pastor assured all, had gone to Heaven. It was an impressive hour in the silence of a country church far off the beaten road.

Buried by Son

They took her casket and placed it in the hearse then drove over the road to the grave. Another memory flooded the hearts of the people who stood in the north wind to see Grandma buried. There by the side of her newly dug grave was another mound. A little over a year ago they buried her baby boy in the old enclosure. He was the late George Richards, slain in Cameron in line of duty as an officer. It was known that Grandma had grieved much for her son. She had lived with him. He had been tender to her in the closing years of her life. Later she found another home and care. It was Mrs. Price who found the time and means to care for her in the last days of her life.

The ministers said a prayer each and the body was lowered into the earth. It was the last thing to be done for Grandma Richards. Tears fell where moist earth had been spaded up to receive her. The wind swept down in cold fury, rustling the flowers into colorful beauty. They had buried her, the pioneer woman whose life will ever be a benediction in the hearts of many.

Pall bearers were grandsons. The nine surviving children are as follows: A. B. Richards of North Elm; Mrs. Annie Weems, Cameron; T. V. Richards, Minerva; Mrs. Willie Fagg, Cameron; Mrs. M. W. Price, Cameron; Mrs. Amanda Walden, Liberty; Mrs. Lucy Clifton, Ben Arnold; Mrs. Fannie Collins, Oxford, Alabama; and Mrs. J. M. Fuller of Yarrellton.

The four children who died were: Mrs. Pattie Carey, Mrs. Ruby Phillips, J. P. Richards, and George Richards.

So our Lecturer Rudolf Richter urged all knights to attend one of the dances to uphold the policy of the Knights to help in any worthy cause.

It is with regret that the council has learned of the death of the mothe' of John C. Andres. The council extends its sympathy to him and his bereaved family.

Trucks

Way Lumber Company Case from the Texas Supreme Court, and the Day Lumber and Timber Company Case from the Court of Civil Appeals at Galveston, hold that a business man who trucks his own merchandise in his own truck over the highways of the state is a contract carrier and must obtain this permit. Of course, under the second section of the law, the Railroad Commission can not give him a permit even if he applies for it.

Commenting on the situation, Mr. W. P. Bates, executive vice-president of the Manufacturers and Merchants Transportation Association which is the organization of Texas business concerns carrying the fight, said: "When these decisions were handed down by the courts, the extreme unfairness of the whole situation gave it almost a comic touch that caused a great many Texas business men to pass it aside with the thought 'Just another nutty law that the Legislature will amend immediately.'

"However, it did not seem foolish to the railroads. In fact the situation contains such potential earnings that it immediately became their number one serious problem. They realize that if the privately owned trucks are forced from the highways, a great precentage of the freight of these manufacturers and merchants will have to be moved by rail, and it is quite apparent that the railroads intend to fight desperately to keep this unexpected package of future profits that a peculiarly worded law tossed into their laps."

An extended campaign to prevent any changes in the law was announced on December 4th by Mr. F. P. Teddlie, executive secretary of "The Texas Railroads." Now a magazine that knows what it is talking about boldly states that the railroads expect to spend $5,000 for one kind of publicity alone, according to Mr. Bates who said, "This does no include the amount that will be spent for organization, free trips to Austin for local attorneys, delegation of depot agents, section foremen, etc., and other railroad supporters. It is safe to assume that the total expenditure will reach the six figure bracket before the Legislature is over."

"Of course, the business men of the state do not intend to stand idly by while their businesses are being destroyed, but the whole situation is so unbelievable that a great many of them do not realize that a most desperate battle is being fought by the railroads on one side, and Texas' private truck owners on the other. Of course, if they work together, Texas business men can overcome any amount of money the railroads can possibly spend, but Texas business men are going to have to realize that $50,000 is really a lot of money, and they are going to have to get mighty busy or their trucks are going to go into the garage and go there to stay. Anyway, the railroads are going to do all they can to convince the members of the Legislature that the present Texas Motor Carrier Laws are all right."

And so the fight is on, and if Texas people see a column of smoke by day or a pillar of fire by night in the general location of Austin, it is not the town burning up or the aurora borealis; it's the legislature phrotechics that are being set off in this year old struggle by the railroads to stifle legitimate truck operations.

advances into 1937 with the
and new operating economy

THE ADDITION of a new 60-horsepower engine to the Ford line for 1937 brings you a new, low price and gives you a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines, 85 horsepower for maximum performance, 60 horsepower for maximum economy.
The 60-horsepower V-8 engine was originally developed for use in England and France, where fuel costs are high. It has been proven there for two years with brilliant success. Now, brought to America, it creates an entirely new standard of modern motoring economy!
The "60" engine, available in five body types, is built in exactly the same body size and wheelbase — to the same advanced design — with the same comfort and convenience as the "85." And it delivers V-8 smoothness at speeds up to 70 miles an hour.
Two engine sizes—but only one car and one purpose—to give you more miles and more satisfaction for your money in 1937.

Glamorous Gown for Roosevelt Birthday Ball

The new vogue for skirts swirling to unmeasurable lengths is illustrated in this glamorous gown of black net which Miss Barbara Lee, New York society girl, has chosen for Manhattan's celebration, January 30, in honor of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and to raise funds for the fight against infantile paralysis.

Crop Program

states. This will enormously simplify the administration of the program. The handbook will be prepared by the State Conservation Committee and approved by the Secretary of Agriculture.

In issuing the new program Secretary Wallace said, "Despite drought and other handicaps, the majority of farmers who took part in the 19936 conservation program approved its principles. Hundreds of community and county meetings were held at which the growers discussed plans for next year. Many suggestions for program improvement and for simlifying administration were made. We considered all of them carefully and incorporated as many of them as could be well fitted into a national program for agriculture.

"The modifications are intended, for the most part, to adapt the program more closely to the needs of the various regions. As you will recall, this is in line with the statement made by H. R. Tolley at the time the 1936 Agricultural Conservation Program was announced.

"For the 19377 progam additional emphasis has has been placed on soil building and more money will be available for soil practices. Such practices, together with the shifting of acreage to soil-conserving crops on land previously devoted to soil-depleting crops, are essential to any sound plan for restoring soil fertility and preventing erosion.

"The new program should not only improve the soil but it also should protect the interests of consumers and help to preserve the economic gains which farmers have made during the past four years.

"The fact that funds for the 1937 program are not yet available should be pointed out. The Congress, at the time the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act was passed in 1936, authorized an annual appropriation of $500,000,000 for carrying out a program under the Act. The actual appropriation for 1937 remains to be made, however. The program we have drafted, therefore, is dependent upon the action of Congress."

LOOKS FOR CHEAP CROP

W. W. Caddell of Buckholts, one of the most successful cotton growers and farm operators in the county, said Monday that he had not seen ice as heavy in his life time as during the blizzard last week. Nor has Mr. Caddell seen a winter season when more moisture has fallen.

Workers

29 hours a week for 9 weeks, 30 hours a week for 21 weeks, 34 hours a week for 5 weeks, and 48 hours a week for two weeks.

Since you failed to work 30 hours a week during the first 24 of these weeks, disregard them. During the remaining 28 weeks you worked a total of 896 hours, or an average of 32 hours a week. Therefore, 32 is your full-time weekly hours.

(2) Your Hourly Rate of Earnings. To get this figure, you consider only the thirteen weeks just before you became unemployed.

Out of these thirteen weeks, take those in which you worked full-time. Add together the total of hours worked in these weeks.

In the example used above, these 13 weeks should include: 2 weeks at 48 hours, 5 weeks at 34 hours, and 6 weeks at 30 hours.

So out of the 13 weeks, you would count only seven—the two at 48 hours because only in these weeks did you work your full-time weekly hours (32) as determined in (1).

Now, in these seven weeks, say you made a total of $16.40. Divide this amount by the number of hours you worked in those seven weeks, or 266. This will give you the figure of 40 cents an hour.

This is your Hourly Rate of Pay.

After you have gotten (1) your full-time weekly hours, and (2) your hourly rate of pay, multiply the hours (1) by the rate (2).

This will give you $12.80.

This is your full-time weekly wage which will be used in determining the amount of compensation.

What About Irregular Workers?

Question 7—"Your last article told how I could determine my weekly wage for the purpose of the Unemployment Compensation Act; but this example does not fit me. My week's work seldom averages 30 hours a week How am I to proceed?"

Answer— To try to be fair to every worker, the Commission has been given the power to vary from the above formula, either in determining the weekly hours, or in determining the hourly rate of earnings, or both.

Suppose your previous employment record is not long enough to fit this formula. What then? The Commission has the power to find out for itself what the customary pay is for your kind of job.

The aim of the law is to be fair to every worker. The formula was worked out carefully to fit the majority of cases. But there always are exceptions, and each exception will be treated fairly by the Commission itself.

If you have any questions concerning the operation of this law as it affects employers or workers, you can have your questions answered by writing to R. B. Anderson, chairman, Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission, Austin.

THE WASHINGTON STAGE

REVIEWED BY

W. R. POAGE

OUR CONGRESSMAN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11, 1937.

I have been in Washington now a little more than a week and while I have not as yet even looked over all of the House office building I have at least learned how to get around the South end of the Capital (where the House of Representatives is located.)

The number and tremendous size of the government buildings here is the first thing that impresses a newcomer. The city spreads over vast areas and the magnificent white marble Federal buildings cover block after block, but when one rides or walks over the city he is impressed with the fact that there is not the congestion of either vehicles or people that would be found in our larger Texas cities and that his chief difficulty arises by reason of the strange and, to me, confusing street plan and traffic rules.

And so it is in large measure with Congress. It is so large that it is necessary that it follow a procedure radically different from that of smaller legislative bodies. The House of Representatives here has 435 Members, as compared with 150 in the Texas House (and I well recall the powerful sentiment to reduce the size of the Texas House.) The United States Senate has 96 Senators, as against 31 in the Texas Senate, so I find myself in a body 14 times as numerous as that in which I have been serving, and instead of being one of the oldest Members in point of service as I was in the Texas Senate I am now the youngest in point of service, and so just as the dominant physical aspect of the city is size, so it is with Congress, or at least so it seems to me. And just as many of the traffic regulations and street intersections which are negotiated easily by the old-timers seem strange to me, so many of the practices of Congress which at this time seem unweildy to me will no doubt soon impress me with their desirability. I would not, therefore, want at this time to attempt to appraise the congressional procedure, although I shall at a later date attempt to outline some of its features.

Congress convened at noon Tuesday, January 5th, and elected a Speaker, Honorable William B. Bankhead of Alabama. The previous afternoon at the Democratic causus, Honorable Sam Rayburn of Bonham, Texas, had been selected as Democratic Leader, and will be, according to custom, in line for the Speakership should the Democrats be in power next time a vacancy occurs in that office. On the first day of the session there were introduced 571 public or general bills and 79 general resolutions, in addition to 1448 private or special bills, or a total of over 2000 bills and resolutions on the first day alone.

On the second day the President addressed a joint session of the House and Senate. He made a forceful speech which was received with great enthusiasm. I am sure that all of you have read it or listened to it over the radio. Immediately after the President's speech the House took up the question of the passage of a resolution empowering the President to stop the exportation of war supplies to Spain. There was no opposition to the proposition, but there was sharp debate as to its scope. Many of the Members felt that it should have been drawn so as to include all countries and I shared this view, but I felt that at this particular time the most important thing was to take care of the practical matter that confronted us—that of stopping the shipment of munitions to Spain. I feel sure that it will be but a short time before we pass general legislation preventing shipment of munitions of war to any country engaged in any kind of armed conflict, and this I consider one of the outstanding problems confronting Congress—the preservation of peace. And I am glad to find a general interest in the matter here, as well as a keen interest in the matter of home ownership—which I consider another of the vital problems of the hour and concerning which I shall write more later on.

I find that the question of finding jobs for one's constituents in just as acute here as it was in Austin, and they are just as hard to find. There are lots of jobs it is true, but they are all filled and there are the usual great waiting lists. I sincerely hope that the time will soon come when it will be unnecessary for so many of our people to seek government employment.
